

Next Meeting

The next meeting will be held on Sunday September 28 at the Qualicum and Graham Park Community Centre on Esquimalt Avenue in Graham Park, doors open at 12:30 pm.

Commencing promptly at 1:00 pm, there will be another sale of horological items including clocks, watches, clock and watch parts, tools and a few books. Founding member Carl Jensen has asked the Chapter to dispose of these items as he is moving to a smaller home and has to reluctantly discard some very useful and useable items. However he wants them to go to people who will have a real use for them i.e. our members. Don't forget, the sale will open promptly at 1:00 pm - not before, so be there on time.

There are many items in which we are sure our members will be interested, and all are priced to sell, so come along and bring some cash. Also, when you buy you will be helping the Chapter, as Carl is generously donating a portion of the money raised to the Chapter.

Following the sale there will be show and tell presentations by members to talk about their latest acquisitions and any new and interesting things they have come across during the summer. There will also be the usual Mart and Display tables available for everyone's use.

Carl Jensen on whose behalf the Chapter will be selling some very useful and interesting horological items at the September meeting.

Last Meeting

The last meeting was held on Sunday May 25 at the Qualicum and Graham Park Community Centre.

The meeting featured a sale of watch and clock items from the estate of the our late member Bill Graham. There were more than ten tables of watch and clock parts, tools and books, all available for sale at very attractive prices, The majority of items were sold very quickly, and everyone expressed great satisfaction at the outcome of the sale. Later, at the formal opening of the meeting, President Maynard Dokken thanked the members of the Graham family who had organized and run the sale; Marcia and Jack Taylor, Laurie Graham and Graham Quiller. They had worked hard to sort the items, bring them to the meeting and sell them. The members were very grateful for the opportunity to acquire many sought-after items, both for their own use, and also in many cases as a memento of Bill Graham.

Maynard and Ben Roberts are attempting to compile a record of pictures of individual members purely for recognition purposes. To date some 43 member's pictures are in the record, and the remaining members are requested to submit to having their individual pictures taken for inclusion.

Interest was expressed in holding a Chapter picnic once more this summer. It will again be held at the Dokken's cottage, and everyone will be sent a notice when a firm July date and other details have been finalized.

The Chapter also plans to hold a Wine and Cheese party again this year, probably in October. George Royer volunteered to hold the event at his home, and details will be worked out with him.

The main item on the program was a talk by Dan Hudon on Escapements. He gave a very interesting presentation which generated much interest and some stimulating discussions.

The remainder of the program consisted of Show and Tell items by members;

Dr. Dan O'Conner showed two interesting watches from his collection: One was an eight dial watch which could show time in eight different locations, and the other a Lindbergh Watch by Longines made in very limited quantities. A gold case version was used by Lindbergh on his transatlantic flight, and he was apparently also involved in the actual design of the watch.

Allan Symonds showed some of the latest additions to his museum's collection of Snider Clocks. The Snider Clock collection is currently a feature display at the museum.

Jordan Renaud displayed a single hand English Long Case clock made by William Shaw 1760 - 1790.

Len Gasenbeek showed and demonstrated a very fine music box.

George Royer showed a one-of-a-kind Pequegnat clock which had been built into a fireplace over-mantel.

Peter Kushnir showed a 'Motion Chart Recorder' used by the CN Railway in Canada to record movement in their freight cars.

Seen at the Last Meeting

Our thanks to Marcia and Jack Taylor, Lauri Graham and Quiller Graham, who brought along and sold the the many watch and clock parts, tools and books from Bill Graham's estate.

There were more than ten tables of horological items and books in the sale. Almost everything sold very quickly.

Business was very brisk throughout the sale

Members examine the many horological books on both clocks and watches.

This Pequegnat clock was shown by George Royer. The clock was built into a fireplace overmantel, and although it does not have an identifiable Pequegnat case, it has a Pequegnat movement.

Dr. Dan O'Conner showed two watches from his collection. The first was an eight dial watch which could show time in eight different locations throughout the world. The second was a very limited edition Lindbergh watch made by Longines, which indicates both real time and elapsed time. A gold cased version of this watch was used by Lindbergh himself on his transatlantic flight, and he apparently was involved in it's design.

Jordan Renaud showed a single hand 30 hour long case clock made by William Shaw of Botsdale (A village some 21 Miles NNW of Ipswich, England). It has a brass dial and a Posted-Frame or 'Birdcage' movement.

Allan Symons showed some of the latest additions to the Snider Clock collection at his Canada Clock Museum. One was a Nautical Clock kit in its original carton, shown on the right. The museum is currently featuring its display of Snider Clocks.

The very fine music box displayed and demonstrated by Len Gasenbeek.

A "Motion Chart Recorder" was demonstrated by Peter Kushnir. The instrument was used by the Canadian National Railway to record any violent motion inside a freight car during its journey, and consequently the amount of shock to which the car's contents were subjected.

Wilson's Revisited

By Maynard Dokken

On May 14, 2003, with my brother-in-law, I revisited the Wilson's in Bancroft at their 'CLOCKS - ANTIQUES' antique store. While the store has other antiques, the main attraction for me are the clocks. My previous report showed the inside of the shop. This time I took pictures of the outside of the shop itself and also some of the clocks in their house, some of which are for sale.

Again a very pleasant two hours were spent with the Wilsons looking at clocks and discussing various other philosophical topics. I purchased a Westclox car clock, two Westclox alarm clocks and a wooden works clock with a tablet painted by Marjorie Wilson.

Bancroft is approximately a two hour drive from Ottawa, but the drive is well worthwhile. Clocks from Vienna regulators and Grandfather clocks to alarm clocks are available to the clock enthusiast.

If you decide to visit them, I suggest a phone call (613-332-3948) or an email (wilsontime@nexicom.net) to ensure that they are open.

Chapter Picnic

Some 36 members, wives and guests attended our Chapter picnic this year. Held on Sunday July 13, the weather was just right, and all enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon by the lake.

Again we have to thank Teresa and Maynard Dokken for the use of their cottage, and for the hard work they put in to make all the preparations, which not only included getting the cottage ready for our invasion, but in purchasing and preparing the hamburgers, hot dogs and other supplies prior to our arrival. Also our thanks go once again to Judy Graham for her able performance with the barbeque, and to Karen Dokken for her very willing and able assistance. Our grateful thanks to all of them for a very pleasant and enjoyable afternoon.
